

Break-in halts local skating

Local arena users had to postpone after-Christmas activities after a break-in last week which flooded service areas and damaged the ice surface.

The Centennial Civic Arena was closed Thursday morning after workers discovered the break-in and a hot-water main left open.

According to the town's parks and facility manager Calvin Bennefield, the water flooded around the arena boards and onto the skating surface, melting ice in some sections and freezing unevenly on most.

The damage affected nearly the entire ice area.

"It made a good mess," Bennefield said, "with all the steam hitting the roof it caused condensation and dripping."

The primary concern was repairing the melted areas towards the north end of the arena, which has to be built up over a period of time.

The flooded but frozen areas of ice will be shaved and levelled once the melted area is ready.

Town staff worked 24 hours Thursday and into Friday trying to repair the damage.

How much the damage will ultimately cost the town will be hard to determine since it involves lost revenue, repairs and paid staff time, Bennefield said, adding it also displaces groups who've booked the arena for the two days.

In a Dec. 20 incident, the wood enclosures at the outdoor rink were broken into and light bulbs were broken and two heating units shut down. With no heat, some water pipes inside the buildings froze and then burst.

The dual sheds are locked by the town at night and re-opened during the day.

It was the third incident involving the enclosures since they were opened this year.

Ironically, the town recreation and culture board discussed putting the outdoor rink into 1985 budget at its meeting the same night, but chose to look at including the service in 1986 instead.

Two years ago, the town eliminated a staff position for supervising the rink and facility due to budget constraints.

Although having a paid supervisor might deter some vandalism at the outdoor rink, recreation director Dennis Woolsey said Thursday damage would still occur since the majority of the damage happens after 11 p.m. when staff would no longer be there.

The ski club is waiting only for warmer weather to open the ski hill for the first time this year.

Ski area waiting on weather

With Mother Nature supplying the much needed snow over the Christmas holiday, the Drayton Valley Ski Hill is waiting only for better weather to open its slopes to ski buffs.

According to Drayton Valley Ski Club president Al Maik, the hill is ready and only last week's extreme cold weather prevented the club from opening it.

"As soon as it warms up, we'll open up," he said Monday.

"We're pretty well ready for it (opening) but the ski patrol won't let us start if it's 20 below or colder, which is only logical."

Although the hill, located about 10 kilometres northeast of Drayton Valley, requires some minor maintenance, it already has about a 20 centimetre base (eight inches) and has undergone some grooming.

"I think it'll be a good year," Maik said, adding the snow conditions now are better than the hill's had in at least the past three years.

The five-run course will operate Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on weekends, Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday-noon to 4 p.m.

The hill includes three rope tows and one T-bar.

The ski club has made some improvements to the ski area this past summer but major improvements to facilities should take place next summer with an addition to the chalet.

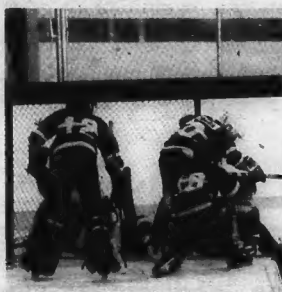

Maik said plans include replacing the present rental shed with another attached to the chalet.

Exchange presents opportunity

Teacher bound for Australia

By Carol Dietrich
To the dedicated and concerned educator, teaching is a challenge at the best of times.

It takes a lot of time and effort to make learning interesting and worthwhile for students.

After 10 years of teaching at Frank Maddock High School, English teacher Tom Sperling will be facing a challenge different than any other he has encountered.

This February, Sperling will begin a year of teaching at Shepparton, Australia's city with a population of 25,000 situated in an Okanagan-like area in the province of Victoria.

Sperling applied for the exchange January 1984 and received official word of his acceptance the following July.

The exchange, through Alberta Education, allows teachers in Alberta and Australia to exchange houses, cars and jobs for one year.

An Australian teacher, Laurie Frost will take his place at the local high school beginning this month.

Sperling is enthusiastic about the opportunity to teach in another country. "It's an excellent opportunity to expand and learn," he said.

"I hope I enjoy it. I'm certain I will.

"I'm looking forward to a different system, sharing ideas and bringing ideas back here.

"I'll expect difference," he added, "I'll thrive on that."

"I'm not going to go there expecting it to be like North America. I enjoy different cultures.

"I hope Australia is not just another version of America."

Sperling said he expected Australian students to be similar to those in Canada.

"I am sure the world is such a small place that the no. 1 movie, book and song will be the same and the students will be the same.

"But I expect the kids to be a little more reserved, less open and a little more formal," he said.

Sperling will not miss out on any seasons he said. "I'll have snow here this January and it is summer in Australia now."

He has been reading about the country so he, his wife and two small children know what to expect when they get down under.

"Prices seem similar, but teachers make less money there."

He said he won't miss many things here but added that there was an exception. "I'm going to find it difficult to live without watching the Oilers, the finest team that ever laced on a pair of skates."

And he said he would have to learn the rules to Australian football.

Video to be distributed throughout province

Except for its final name and a premier date, the Shangri La Lodge and Alberta Educational Communications Corp. (ACCESS) video production is ready and waiting.

According to ACCESS director Ray Harper, the nearly 30-minute video is waiting only for a decision on its final title and for local plans for its debut.

Called 'Activities for Seniors' for production purposes, the show was filmed last September and documents the life and atmosphere at the Drayton Valley lodge. The finished product — now transferred to video tape — will be distributed to other senior citizens' lodges, management boards and foundations throughout the province by the board. ACCESS, which will retain rights to the production, also has plans for the show which may include commercial and satellite television showings.

When the final product will be shown here is up to the local management board and the residents.

Board member Jeanette Vatter expects the video to be presented about the third week in January, although the date is tentative until its actual completion. She added the board will request at least one more private showing before it's released to the public.

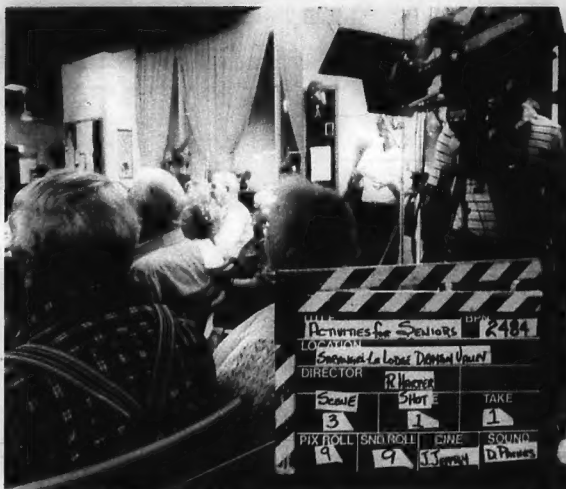

Vatter said the premiere will be at the lodge and the public will be invited.

Plans for the video after here are also tentative although the board is drafting a letter outlining the production and its purpose to send to lodges throughout the province.

Already, the board has three designated areas it wants to visit, Vatter said.

"What we want to do is distribute it (the video) to as many places as we can," she said.

'Activities for Seniors' is a co-operative effort between the lodge and ACCESS and is funded in part through a federal New Horizons Grant.

The Shangri La/ACCESS video shot last fall is nearing completion.

Councillors feel responsible for road work

The quality of the access road leading to Willy West Campground is the responsibility of Leduc County and no other government agency or group involved with its construction, two county councillors argue.

Leduc County councillors Mike Myrskog and Albert Klapshein voiced their concern over the road and the county's responsibility at council's December meeting.

The county's authority with the project was designated to the Breton Regional Recreation Board, which represents council on the project.

"That road was largely started at the persuasion of the MLA (Shirley Cripps). If things go wrong she is responsible also," claimed Reeve Norman Bittner.

But Klapshein replied: "We are the board authority, MLAs come and go. The responsibility is ours no matter what goes on."

The issue was dropped and raised again the next day when county secretary-treasurer Fred Rolof read a letter received from Alberta Energy and Natural Resources, following the department's inspection of the road.

A department representative listed technical difficulties with the access road, including slumping and erosion.

Rolof told councillors all agreements between government agencies on the project are in the name of the county.

Councillor Bruce Copley said, according to Theo Westling, an organizer of the campground, Mobil Oil is also seeking an agreement to clarify the company's rights.

By-election possible in Entwistle

The Village of Entwistle will soon have a new mayor, along with a new councillor.

The Dec. 10 resignation of Mayor Monika Capps has left a seat vacant on the five-member council and nominations for the position will be accepted at the village office Jan. 7.

"I wanted to spend more time with my family," said Capps of her resignation, following three years of council duty.

Returning officer Adelaide Burke said a by-election will be held Feb. 4 if more than one person is nominated.

"I have no idea who may be running but I think there may be enough interest to force an election," she said.

Once a new councillor is in place, Burke said a mayor will be appointed at council's organizational meeting.

Deputy Mayor Dave Copeland will act as mayor until a new appointment is made.

Headquarter construction still on schedule

Despite poor weather conditions, construction of the new RCMP headquarters in Drayton Valley is on schedule.

Project manager Terry Richelhoff of Trend Construction says work on the building which began in October is going ahead as planned.

Foundations for the $934,000 facility are in place at the site on Industrial Road and it's expected walls will be erected soon.

Building plans include an exercise room, meeting room, office space, cells and a garage area, amounting to about 750 sq. metres (8,000 sq. ft.).

Construction is expected to be complete in July.

Construction of the new RCMP headquarters has been underway for the past few months.

Company plan gives orders

The recent announcement by an American firm that its employees must quit smoking or face termination is an interesting one.

While it obviously infringes upon what we have always considered a right, we also have to look at it as a qualification by the corporation for continued employment.

Their contention is that a full half an hour a day is taken up by lighting and smoking cigarettes. They are also concerned by the health problems resulting from the habit, some of which they have to pay for through the employee health plans.

Further to this, what about the effect on the non-smoking employees? They are paid the same amount, but they also indirectly subsidize their smoking compatriots.

One can look at it as a mild form of on-the-job alcohol or drug abuse. Reduced productivity on the part of one worker creates an added load on the shoulders of another.

Unfortunately we have to also consider the workers' right to self-determination. What right does an employer have to dictate their personal habits? Will this system be abused in the processes of hiring and firing?

None of these questions have easy answers, yet they deserve consideration. A possible alternative to proposed termination could be solved through restrictive hiring. The conditions which the entire staff was hired under didn't include smoking and it would seem unfair to impose those restrictions now.

Western Review boss gives final farewell

Just as you have to write a column when you arrive at a newspaper, you also have to write one when you leave, I'm leaving The Western Review, so this is my good-bye column.

Jan. 4 will be my last day before I move to Edmonton to begin a job with TransAlta Utilities as a public affairs representative, which I'm looking forward to as being onward and upward. But that's in the future, and Drayton Valley is about to become part of my past — almost 2½ years worth.

During that time I've learned a lot, not only about Drayton Valley, but also about myself. This newspaper business can be fascinating if only for the variety and the number of people you meet.

Working for a newspaper is demanding and your readers often expect a lot, sometimes too much, and if you're not careful you can become cynical. But the bottom line is you have to care about the people in your community and the job you do for them.

Editor's Notes

I try to keep in mind that without them there wouldn't be any news, and there wouldn't be anyone to read it, either.

Over the years I've developed a nameless composite person whom I write for and orient the paper towards. Everyone I've met here has gone into the formation of that everchanging person, and I would like everyone to know that they've all contributed in some form to the way I've run this newspaper during my tenure. I'd also like to thank you all for your contributions.

So, this is it folks, my last Montreal Canadiens column, after this there won't be no more. I feel sad in a way, because I know there's a pocket of the faithful out there — real troopers — who will no longer have a voice and will have to put up with the Drillers and the chortling of their fans. Strength, mes amis, strength, and know that you were my favorite readers.

Public attitude must change

Dear Editor,

At this time of year impaired driving stories are daily topics by both newspaper and television media in Alberta's metropolitan areas. Our rural members tell us this is not the case in their communities.

This is particularly sad when one realizes that a full two-thirds of all fatalities due to vehicular crashes occur in rural areas (1,063 in the past three years). Of these, 293 involved alcohol. Add to this total nearly 44,000 injuries with 6,300 involving alcohol during the same period in rural areas.

The overwhelming tragedy that accompanies these statistics is that our youth between the ages of 15 and 19 years are those most likely to meet this fate (by a 5 to 2 margin over other age groups). For every 100 licensed male drivers in your community, three will never reach age 25; they will have become another auto-crash victim.

If these figures alarm you — they should. If you feel they are inaccurate — they come from Alberta Traffic Collision Facts issued by Alberta Transportation.

Panel report too shallow

ERCB report for looks only

Dear Editor,

The ERCB Lodgeline Blowout report is out. Hooray!

Such fine paper, such lovely coil binding, such clear printing, such professional, color photograph!

In appearance it rivals many a coffee table book selling for $35, and I imagine it cost the taxpayer more.

It reads smoothly, too.

But look for depth or meaning beyond glib sentences and wispy-washy assurances and you will find this book is for looks only.

Take evacuation. The nice hand-out everyone gets in the mail states they are "ensuring the H2S exposure limits are appropriate — especially for sensitive people." It sounds perfect, doesn't it?

Yes, until you look in the big book to clarify "sensitive people" and you find the term is not included in the impressive glossaries.

Turn to page 7-6 and you will find an informal definition of sensitive people as "the very old, the very young, and those with respiratory disorders."

Look in the glossaries to find definitions for "very old, very young, and respiratory disorders." Again, no definitions.

Presumably, these terms are to be inter-

Letters

As long as society accepts drinking and driving as normal behaviour nothing will change. Added enforcement, stiffer sentencing by the courts or Criminal Code changes will do little to solve the problem. Only when the public no longer tolerates this most pervasive of all criminal acts will there be a lasting improvement, and that will come only after we accept that driving is a privilege not to be abused by ourselves nor by our friends.

interpreted at the time of the next blow-out by the powers in charge. I am sure that they will be able to find definitions that will enable them to follow all the regulations while doing nothing; definitions like these:

Very old - those over 102 years of age.
Very young - babies under one week.
Respiratory disorders - things that cause people to stop breathing permanently or to become comatose.

Considering there was only one MD, one MB, two P. Engs and one PhD among the worthy panel, I fail to see why these definitions are being left up to the roughneck on duty at the time of the next blow-out.

Not only will the roughneck have to decide who is in danger and who is sensitive! He will also have to find out who lives in the area since the panel does not think it necessary for drilling crews to have this information before the fact.

After reading all of the ERCB recommendations I have only one recommendation to make — when the next blow-out occurs, the six worthy experts who served on the panel should be moved to live as close to the blow-out as the nearest unevacuated resident. Then they can add experience to their expertise.

The Bird's Story
By Karen Badry
Rm 3, Grade 3
St. Anthony School

One morning I was flying around looking for something pretty for my nest. I was flying past the palace and I saw a window open. I landed on the window sill and looked inside.

Suddenly I saw a crown. I thought it would look nice on my nest. So I flew in. The window shut and I couldn't get out. Then I saw someone coming towards me. I tried to get away but he caught me. He took me to the king.

The king said "This is the most beautiful bird in the world." Then the king took me to a place where lots of birds were. They were all pretty. I felt sorry for the birds. I wanted to get out.

I managed to get out. I unlocked the other birds. Then someone was coming. He opened the door and we flew out. We flew past the guards and out of the palace.

When we were out of the palace we went to my nest to have a party. We all lived happily ever after.

The Red Shoes

By Jennifer Marcotte
Rm 3, Grade 3
St. Anthony School
A little girl named Karen wanted red shoes.

One day walking home from getting her mother's medicine, she saw an old lady who had never seen before. She was holding a pair of red shoes.

The old lady told Karen to take them. Karen's shoes once were burnt. She was going to live in a comfortable house with an old lady.

As she got taller the old woman bought her a pair of new red shoes. One Sunday when she went to church everybody looked at her strangely.

When she was sitting down her shoes started to twitch. They made her dance. Night and day she was forced to dance.

She died one day and now flows along with the sun and no one ever asked about the red shoes.

Skiing

I put on my skis, ready to go
And they carry me swiftly over the snow.
With a rush and hush and that little scratching sound

That always tells me I'm making good ground.
Faster and faster till the moment when

I hit the ski jump
And fly faster than...
As I hit the ground
I feel safe and sound.
I ski to the lift

And keep going round and round.

My Snowman

By Janine Fulkerth
Rm 3, Grade 3

I make my snowman with white cool snow,
With black plastic buttons for his eyes that will glow.

A hat for his head and

A sock for his nose.
Then fill in the holes that are empty and froze.
His body is fat, his buttons are flat
And his mouth is made of little round rocks.
I think my snowman is ready to talk.

Athlete enjoys sports

Student makes new friends

By Ray Lainebury

Steve Sofogiannis has just recently moved to Drayton Valley. Before coming here he lived in Winnipeg, and before that in Greece.

He says he enjoys Drayton Valley so far, but adds he's only been here about a month.

Steve enjoys riding his bicycle in the summer months, flying, swimming and skating.

He explained when he moved from Winnipeg to Drayton Valley he was sad because he had to leave all his friends. But now he's made new friends here.

"I think Drayton Valley is a fine town," he said.

Steve explained the reason his family moved to Canada was so they could make enough money to build a new house in Greece. He moved to Winnipeg when he was 5 years old and lived there for about a year before moving to Drayton Valley. When the time comes, Steve and his family will move back to Greece.

Student-at Random

"I will be glad to move back to Greece, to be in the nice weather and to be back with my old friends," he said.

Christmas a time for a variety of feelings

The word 'Christmas' brings a flood of conflicting emotions to mind.

First order of business, and without a doubt the most perplexing, is the gift buying. The endless days of searching your mind and the shopping centres for gift ideas both suitable and appealing looms ominously in the mind of even the most organized shopper.

The sentiment and joy of the season is more often than not lost in the mad dash for things commercial. And worse yet is the worry over dollars you can scarcely afford to spend.

As the special day draws nearer, the tension mounts until finally you've run out of shopping days. The presents are bought and wrapped and like or not, the deed is done.

Then it's the drive home. You arrive, see the family and the decorated tree. You can smell the goodies mom has spent countless hours preparing.

On Christmas Eve you attend mass and sitting with your family as you sing the carols, finally the true meaning of the season begins to strike you.

Home from church, we open the piles of gifts. I still feel a sense of magic and pleasure, watching someone opening a gift I know they'll appreciate and share a good laugh when someone receives a present they didn't expect.

And then it's time for the Christmas drinks, eating the chocolates and putting Christmas records on the turntable, all midst wrapping paper strewn everywhere.

Drayton Valley Hospital Auxiliary would like to thank Santa and Big Guy Photography for their generous contribution, of time and pictures. Your thoughtfulness brought joy to many, Christmas Eve, at the hospital.

Perspectives

by Carol Dietrich

Sitting around joking and talking — all together — something we used to take for granted.

Christmas Day is filled with relatives and, for those of us not inclined to do much cooking, food, all delicious and too good to pass up.

Time passes too quickly and suddenly it's time to leave. You pack up, say your good-byes and drive off.

It's over. Christmas is over. The months of anticipation and planning seem insignificant as Dec. 25 passes.

But at least you have your memories and can live with the knowledge that in 12 short months you'll get to do it all over again.

Wedding Plans?

A cordial invitation is extended to all brides to come in and register in our bridal registry and receive a free piece of Bohemian crystal ornaments. The bridal registry helps to diminish duplication of gifts.

J&A Mites beat Devon

A strong defense and three goals by Ian Cathrea kept the J&A Mites ahead of their Devon counterparts Sunday at Centennial Civic Arena as the local hockey team won 4-3.

Travis Brigley had J&A's fourth strike and one assist in the teams second game outside of house-league play. Scott Wilson and Ian Cathrea had the team's other assists.

In their first outside game Saturday in Rocky Mountain House, J&A were downed 11-2. The Flint and Braidnor Mites also had their first outside contests last week with Flint downing Warburg 7-3 and Braidnor losing 5-2 to Edson. Shelby Jorgenson had both the Braidnor goals.

Both games were in Drayton Valley. In other mite action, Flint beat J&A 6-4 Dec. 18. On Dec. 19, J&A beat Braidnor 6-2.

Western Review Sports Results

Midget Clippers lose

The Drayton Valley Clippers came up short at a midget hockey tournament in Edson Dec. 28-29, losing three scheduled contests. Clippers lost a 7-5 decision to Morinville in overtime then lost 10-4 to Grande Centre and 11-3 against Edson.

Tests scheduled

About 60 figure skaters are expected for testing at the Drayton Valley Centennial Arena Jan. 5.

However, due to a loss of local ice time as a result of surface flooding, testing chairman Barb Eckert says few Drayton Valley skaters will be involved.

"You like to be ready when you go (for testing) and those two days of lost ice time really hurt," she explains.

Eckert says once the flooding occurred Dec. 26 when the arena was broken into, some skaters rented ice time in Evansburg, but those who lost the practice time most likely won't test.

"It's a bit disheartening, gearing up for this and then ending up not testing."

She notes skaters scheduled to take part will come from as far as Hinton and Irma, north of Wainwright.

"Primarily we're running this (skating tests) for kids out of town."

But she points out local skaters will have opportunities for testing in February, with tests slated in Hinton and Wabamun.

Curlers compete in Zone 16 finals

Drayton Valley will field three rinks for the Womens' Zone 16 playoffs in Stony Plain this weekend.

The Deb Collyer and Cindy Vowk rinks will compete in the ladies' division while former Zone 16 champions Deanna Sluchinski rink will compete in the junior ladies. No senior ladies rink will compete this year.

For Collyer and team members Deb Van Ember (third), Connie Krowchuk (second) and Gloria Schapka (lead) it is their second appearance at the zones which determine what rinks will compete in the Northern Provincial Playoffs later in January.

Last year in Edson, Collyer was eliminated from play after two games but according to Van Ember, the rink hopes to improve that record.

"We're hoping to do better than last year; a lot of it was nerves last year," she said.

The competition "was pretty good, but you had to play good. It wasn't anything out of our league or anything like that."

"To get past our nerves is the biggest thing. We go out there and we out-do ourselves. We can do it," she said.

The Vowk rink will make its first appearance at the zones in several years.

"We hope to do well," skip Cindy Vowk said. "We curled against a team we'll be curling against in the zones at a previous bonspiel (and) they beat us, but not by a whole lot so we're certain we'll do well."

Curling with Vowk are Gail Woyanowich (third), Linda Jamieson (second) and Leila Hotte (lead).

Looking for their third Zone 16 title in four years, the Deanna Sluchinski rink will face stiff competition from reigning zone champions Spruce Grove.

"Our biggest competition will be from Spruce Grove," the 16-year-old skip said, "that's who we lost to last time and to beat them this year we'll have to work hard."

The Sluchinski rink earned berths in the Northern Playoffs in 1980 and 1982 before losing to Spruce Grove last year.

Along with Sluchinski, the rink includes Teena Howarth (third), Kim Bergquist (second) and Jodie Urchysky (lead).

At least two mens' teams will compete in the mens' Zone 16 playoffs Jan. 11-12 in Spruce Grove.

The Elson Keown rink, including Carl Passy (third), Rick Collyer (second) and Hal Van Ember (lead) will compete in the mens' division while the Joe Hoshowski rink are scheduled to compete in the senior mens'.

Included on the Hoshowski rink are: Zoltan Liba (third), Fred Snell (second) and Bert Trueman (lead).

Bantam Oilers win consolation final

The Norette Oilers had their hands full over the Christmas holidays with hockey tournaments here and in Rocky Mountain House last weekend.

The Bantam 'B' team finished with a consolation win at their own tournament (Dec. 22 and 23) and lost the championship game in Rocky Mountain House to settle for second place.

Including tournaments, exhibition and league play, the Oilers have a 17-7-2 win/loss record so far this season.

In Central Alberta Hockey League Standings, they're in at least the top two, a pleased coach Jim Johnson said.

"It's about two places higher than we expected," he said. "We were expecting to be about fourth or fifth; that's usually what we end up in, either in the playoffs or just out of them."

Earlier in the season, the Oilers relied on a strong offense to help offset some goaltending problems but seemed to have solved the difficulties after converting forwards Craig Urchysky and Dean Tuffin. Both Oilers earned Most Valuable Player awards during games in Rocky Mountain House last weekend.

"I'm quite happy with the overall play," the coach said, adding the team's "gone beyond our (coaches) expectations."

"We're getting productivity out of some of the players we weren't expecting."

During their tournament here, the Oilers beat Stony Plain their first game, then lost to league rivals Rocky Mountain House. On the consolation side, the Oilers beat Edson and then Stony Plain a second time for the consolation final.

"We just can't seem to get their (Rocky Mountain House) number in the last three games we've played them," Johnson said. "We should be able to beat them."

"We should have been on the A side, but we got beat by Rocky and then they got beat by Ledue."

Johnson added the tournament ran "very well" with the help of local parents and organizers.

In last weekend's tournament, the Oilers downed Red Deer 9-2 in their opening contest and then Wetaskiwin 8-2. They lost to host team Rocky Mountain House 5-1 in their third and again 2-0 in the final.

The Oilers travel to Olds Saturday in league action and have possible tournaments in Vegreville and Edson in the new year as well as a 32-team tournament in Calgary in April.

Students seek counselling

By Carol Dietrich
Coping with day-to-day problems is hard enough for the average high school student.

Personal problems coupled with demanding course loads can cause a lot of stress and seem overwhelming.

For years now, students at Frank Maddock High School have consulted with school counsellor Jim Wolff but this school term a larger than normal number are seeking his assistance.

"Students who can normally cope with their problems are coming to see me," said Wolff.

A steady stream of teenagers have been meeting with the counsellor from the beginning of the school term until the week before Christmas, he said.

"I sometimes see 15 to 20 kids a day for a variety of reasons."

Wolff said he has no explanation for the increased numbers but added that other counsellors and social workers he has spoken to are experiencing a similar phenomenon.

"The problems — personal, family and economic — are not unusual but the difference is the amount of students."

"There are three periods in the year that generally are more stressful for students: from the time the leaves fall off the trees till the first snowfall, from mid-February to the end of March and from May to mid-June," Wolff said.

"In the fall, things are bleak outside and it's kind of a dead time. February is the end of a long winter and people are generally down, and in May kids are making decisions about what they will do during the summer and a lot of them don't have firm plans," he explained.

"Any period of time with change is a period of stress. The change is stressful."

The increased amount of stress experienced by students has taken a toll on the counsellor, who also teaches one quarter of the time. "My burnout rate has increased."

After 17 years as a counsellor and having developed a method for counteracting burnout, he said he was surprised to find himself, twice this term, in worse condition than in recent years.

According to his job description, Wolff is supposed to spend the greater portion of his time in educational and vocational counselling. "I find I'm spending most of my time in crisis intervention," he added.

But Wolff said he doesn't have the solutions to problems. "Every person has the solution to their problem. I just suggest alternatives and help a person figure out his own answer to the problem."

In some schools the attitude toward counselling is stand-offish, but that isn't the case at the local high school, he said.

"Kids are encouraged to identify their problems and seek solutions."

"I never find myself short of work," he joked. In many cases the counsellor will bring people with similar problems together and leave them to work out their problems without him.

"Other people can help more than I can and it works great with specific problems."

As far as the present trend goes, Wolff wouldn't make any predictions. "I don't know what it will be like from now until June, but the first week after Christmas I expect to hear a lot of stories."

Jim Wolff is the high school counsellor.

Holidays quiet for police

The Christmas holidays were relatively quiet for local RCMP officers.

"There were several accidents," said Cpl. Tom Turner, "but most of them occurred Dec. 24."

Two accidents on Christmas Eve, one on the Cynthia highway 621 and the other on highway

22 near the Buck Creek turnoff, were rear-end collisions caused by blowing snow, he said.

There were no injuries but some serious property damage, he added.

"Other than those accidents, there were several small fenderbenders in Drayton Valley."

Access road raises concerns with councillors

By Gail Poon

The controversial issue of an access road to Willy West Campground has become a source of despair for Leduc County councillors.

The issue was raised on more than one occasion during the December county council meeting, revealing a frustration commonly shared by councillors.

Discussion was spurred by a county parks and recreation advisory committee recommendation, suggesting $3,100 from a department surplus be provided to the Breton Regional Recreation Board toward construction of the road. It was also recommended the same amount be allotted to the county's other six regional recreation boards, to be designated for special projects.

Noting a total of $21,700 would be dispersed from the $65,000 surplus accumulated over past years, director Bev Parker said because Willy West was in need, the other regions should not be denied the funds.

But councillor Gene Bagg replied "let's not give one region the money and tell them what to do with it and not the others."

It was noted money has been applied toward specific areas for special projects, such as Joseph Lake (in the county's east end).

But county secretary-treasurer Fred Roloff said in past years, any surplus has been directed specifically toward special projects rather than "in general."

"Willy West is a little bit of a contentious issue to begin with, even if the road is built," suggested Reeve Norman Bittner.

Division 7 councillor, Bruce Cropley, told councillors he did not believe $3,100 would cover overruns, expressing a concern there was "no design (and) no engineering" for the project.

He said he was worried about the grading of the road, noting a 55 to 60 metre (180 to 200 foot) incline.

"I don't see why we should extend it; it will cost seven times more than $3,100," he said. Cropley, who favored the construction of the access road in a different location, stated "I think we, as a council, should have looked at the road and not approved it."

The county has already committed $20,000 toward the construction of the access road — $10,000 from the county's coffers and $10,000 from Major Cultural Recreation funds.

The remaining costs are to be covered by a $32,000 grant from the Department of Transportation and $12,000 from Mobil Oil, which will be using and maintaining the road.

Total money committed toward the project is $64,000 — short of the accepted bid of $67,000 from Alsike Construction to build the road.

Willy West Campground is situated alongside the North Saskatchewan River, downstream of the Drayton Valley Bridge near Highway 99. Approved by Alberta Recreation and Parks, the park will include day-use areas, campsites, fire pits, a boat launch and several other facilities.

"Should we in fact build that extensive road? Would it benefit the Breton region more than anyone else?" Reeve Bittner asked, questioning the differences in distance to the campground between Breton and Warburg. "I have no problem with giving each region $3,100 with no strings at all."

"The park would be put up for the people travelling on the highway just like Wizard Lake. They didn't give it to the region, they gave it to the county," contended Bagg.

At that point in the meeting, councillors chose to make a decision pending the results of a public survey on the levying and distribution of recreation taxes.

The results are expected to be compiled early in the new year.

SOUND COUNTRY

By Doug Davis

"The Door Is Always Open," a two-hour TV special taped in Nashville and scheduled for 1985 viewing, is a musical tribute to the late Elvis Presley, who played an important part in the lives of each of the stars on the show.

Hosted and co-produced by Waylon Jennings, the guest list is a who's who of Nashville songwriters and performers: Willie Nelson, Richie Albright, Hank Cochran, Jeannie Collier, Little Jimmy Dickens, Harlan Howard, George Jones, Marie King, Kris Kristofferson, Red Lane, Earl MacDavid, Roger Miller, Mickey Newbury, Webb Pierce, Buck Ram, Mack Vickery, Hank Williams Jr., Mac Wiseman and Faron Young.

The concert portion of the show, performed at the Grand Ole Opry before a sold-out audience, features Jennings, Collier, Nelson, Kristofferson, Jones, Williams, Miller and Young. The money raised from the sale of tickets has helped to set up the Sun Brewer Fund, a non-profit organization established to assist Nashville's struggling songwriters.

RCA Records has released a special audio self-portrait album of rare Elvis Presley interviews as a programming aid to radio stations. The disc is intended for promotional use only and will not be made available to the public.

The album, titled "The Elvis Presley Interview Record," is designed to complement RCA's current extensive campaign to celebrate the 50th birthday of the king of rock 'n' roll.

The album features Presley discussing a wide variety of topics, including his hobbies, religion and philosophy as well as his mother, fans, private life and music. Also included on the interview record are conversations with Presley's parents, Vernon and Gladys Presley.

Michael Martin Murphy's music video, "Disenchanted," was recently presented with the Silver Reel Award at the Second Annual New Mexico Film and Video Award ceremony at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque.

During the ceremony, Silver Reel trophies and cash prizes were awarded in various categories, with "Disenchanted" winning in the music video category. "Disenchanted," the top 10 single from "The Heart Never Lies" album, is Murphy's first video.
